Sustainable Eating: Support Your Community by Buying Local

WHY BUY LOCAL? When you buy locally grown food, your food is fresher, tastes better, and is more nutritious; you're supporting the local economy and keeping your money at home where it counts most; you're building community and caring for your environment; and you're thinking about your future and your children's future. By purchasing locally grown food, you increase demand. Increasing demand means local farmers will grow and sell more food in your community. This, in turn, keeps farmland and helps to preserve the Inland Northwest's rural landscapes.
